

Tokyo, November 28, 2012

Dear ERI colleagues & friends

Since my first trip to Japan I had a desire to spend some time looking at Earth Science related topics. I was delighted when the Institute allowed me to make this dream come true. I am very grateful for this unique opportunity to be able to look into ideal datasets, projects and to develop some research which will eventually be an asset to my research career.

Staying at ERI and being able to have fruitful discussions with colleagues and visitors has been a tremendous experience, which I really hope to be able to repeat some time in the near future.

I am very grateful to the college at ERI to let me participate at field trips and workshops which have been very valuable. Furthermore, the foreign exchange program that ERI is running is outstanding as it allows direct discussions and information exchange with top students and scientist around the world.

On another grounds, Japan and particularly Tokyo has a lot to offer to foreigners as me, culture, food, and the best its people.

I really hope to be able to come back in the near future.

Ramon Carbonell

CSIC - Inst. of Earth Sciences, Barcelona, Spain

