

Tokyo, November 27, 2012

Dear colleagues and friends in ERI

First of all, I would like to thank the institute for granting me this opportunity to come and visit ERI. I would also like to express my gratitude to Professor Teruyuki Kato for helping me in every aspect during the five months of my visit.

It has been a fruitful trip for me. I have had the privilege to work on one of the best documented data sets and the chance to have inspirational discussions with colleagues and visitors in ERI. I look forward to future collaborations with ERI colleagues.

I have enjoyed exploring the rich culture in Japan. I was also deeply impressed by seeing people smiling to each other while walking out of their offices when the building was shaken by earthquakes. I hope to see you again soon!

WANG Ting (王婷)
University of Otago, NZ.