A Geant4 framework for generic simulations of atmospheric muon detection experiments

Nicola Mori[1,2]

on behalf of the MURAVES collaboration

Department of Physics, University of Florence, Italy[1]
INFN-Firenze, Italy[2]

A flexible and adaptive simulation framework based on Geant4 is presented. The framework has been developed in order to speed up the deployment of full-featured Monte Carlo simulation codes for small/medium sized particle detection experiments with generic geometries. Specific components related to atmospheric muon experiments have been developed and are presented as well.